WEB 3 BLOCKCHAIN

WEB 3.0

Polygon is designed to be a high-performance blockchain network that can handle a large number of transactions per second. It achieves this through the use of a Layer 2 scaling solution called Plasma, which allows for faster and more efficient transaction processing.

Cost-effectiveness: With low transaction fees, Polygon offers a cost-effective alternative to other blockchain networks. This makes it an attractive option for developers looking to build decentralized applications that require frequent transactions.
